

StratAG Research Outreach

Public Session

W²GIS 2009

Tuesday 8th December

14:00 – 17:00

Glenroyal Hotel, Maynooth,
Co. Kildare.

The public outreach session at the 9th International Symposium on Web and Wireless Geographic Information Systems (W²GIS 2009), sponsored by Science Foundation Ireland, is designed to highlight the current and potential role of academic GIS (Geographic Information Systems) research in Ireland. GIS is a hot-topic in current technological innovation. As communication and computation becomes increasingly mobile, the geographic location of information, products and people become increasingly incorporated into modern business models.

Our goal is to make the GIS research conducted as part of the StratAG project accessible and relevant to local government, local businesses and members of the public. During this session, the speakers will address the use of GIS for technological innovation. The research conducted as part of the StratAG project is a product of the rich Irish knowledge economy. The outputs of the research will be outlined and their potential for further technological innovation in the field of GIS will be explained in a manner that is publicly accessible as a series of 5 short talks. Interested parties are encouraged to attend, listen to the talks and share their ideas.

Attendance at this public session is free and open to all. Places are limited. Please register now by sending an email indicating your intention to attend and affiliation (if any) to:
